

ABSTRACT

The present invention provide an apparatus, devices and/or systems for the installation of building material which allows one individual on his own to install 5 building material. The device includes at least one resting surface spaced apart from a fastener.